C. MHS TRANSFORMATION

As of October 2019, the Defense Health Agency was tasked with responsibility for administrative functions and management of military hospitals and clinics across the United States. During a transition period, the military medical departments will support DHA until headquarters functions and markets mature to handle full operations. In FY 2021, DHA will establish Defense Health Region Europe and Defense Health Region Indo-Pacific to manage overseas hospitals and clinics.

Broad-scale changes happening across the MHS will continue over several years. By merging three military health care systems into one, the MHS is forming a more unified health care organization. We call this MHS Transformation, and it includes organizational structure changes and performance improvements as part of health care reforms.

Standardizing business processes offers new opportunities for the MHS enterprise to improve health services while creating a seamless, valuable experience for patients. Changes may reshape the military health care services footprint; reduce uniformed medical personnel staffing in some military hospitals or clinics; and, introduce modern information technology tools – among other developments to come.

Military medical personnel reductions reflect the Department of Defense requirement to deliver on our National Defense Strategy. Gradually reducing the military medical staff began in Fiscal Year 2020 and will continue. Some reductions are taking place through attrition by not filling job vacancies. To the greatest extent possible, all personnel will receive advanced notice of any changes along with the criteria used to make decisions. Throughout the reduction period, DoD and MHS leaders across DHA and the military departments will look at any impacts on readiness or medical care and address them in their planning and dialogue with Congress.

When it comes to creating stronger business practices and deploying an electronic health record, there is MHS GENESIS. In February 2017, the MHS began a five-year transition to MHS GENESIS at four locations in the Pacific Northwest. A second wave of installations launched with four additional facilities in Northern California and Idaho in September 2019. More waves are coming to more locations across the enterprise, and the program will complete a full installation in 2023.

By reducing undesired variation, the MHS will strengthen the enterprise to deliver patient access to quality health care, improve patient experience, drive value the DoD can reinvest and better support medical readiness.

E. SF-182

Additional training can be requested through the Standard Form-182 (SF-182) process. The SF-182 is the Request, Authorization, Agreement and Certification for Training Form, which is used to formally request and document instances of military and civilian employee training (training courses, continued education and certification programs) in the DoD. This is a Federal document, implemented by the Office of Personnel Management (OPM) across agencies and must be completed and submitted no less than 30 days prior to the training start date or early bird registration date cutoff. This Authorization Agreement and Certification for Training is designed to capture costs associated with training from outside vendors along with the funding information necessary to complete each transaction.

The DHA Administrative Instruction (DHA-AI 043) authorizing this CSA Policy is located on the DHA Publications here:
